

Welcome to a full day of inspiration and new knowledge on translanguaging in diverse contexts.

In Sweden, where multilingualism is increasingly common in the classrooms, translanguaging has been embraced as an important pedagogical tool in many schools, with programs implemented that encourage a translanguaging stance.

This conference brings together researchers and practitioners from around the world, from Africa to Asia and the United States to Europe, to share their findings on the topic of translanguaging with a focus on schools, society, or individual learners. Topics such as translanguaging approaches in school and at home, translanguaging in language classes, identity construction, language policies, and literacy skills in multilingual educational settings are just a few examples of areas that will be discussed by the researchers at this conference.

Given the significance of teachers' knowledge and competence in guiding multilingual learners in their education, participation in this conference will provide a great space for sharing knowledge on research and practice.

Translanguaging in the Age of (Im)mobility (TIM2023)

Tuesday June 13, 2023, at Dalarna University, Falun

Programme

- . 8.30 Registration in the main hall
- . 9.00-10.15 Plenary speaker Line Møller Daugaard
Newcomer youth as educational and translanguaging subjects
Prof. Møller Daugaard is Senior Associate Professor of Language Education at VIA University College, Denmark. She is engaged linguistically and politically to strengthening the work with language in primary schools and teacher training.
- . 10.15-10.45 Coffee/tea
- . 10.45-12.15 Parallel sessions with presentations of research on translanguaging in school contexts
- . 12.15 Lunch at Lugnet Church
- . 13.30-15.00 Parallel sessions with presentations of research on translanguaging in school contexts
- . 15.00-16.00 Coffee/tea with poster presentations of research
- . 16.00-17.15 Plenary speaker James Simpson
Belonging and mobility: A translanguaging perspective
Prof. Simpson publishes on language education and migration, as well as the sociolinguistics of mobility. He is Associate Professor in the Division of Humanities at Hong Kong University of Science & Technology.

(The conference is in English, although there are several presentations about the Swedish school context.)

Registration

1500 kr per person for members of PUD (including MOMS)

1700 kr per person for non-members of PUD (including MOMS)

The conference price includes coffee/tea in the morning and afternoon, lunch at Lugnet Church, participation in all sessions, and a certificate of attendance.

Last day for registration is May 15, 2023.

Link to the conference site here.

Link to registration here.

(This link is for the one-day teacher attendance. Note that space is limited to 50 teachers.)

Questions? Please contact the conference organizers: tim2023@du.se

Sponsored by

School of Language, Literatures and Learning (ISLL)

Dalarna's Centre for Educational Development (PUD)

